CHEWED REDHOT CHARCOAL

Arab Accomplished This Feat Without Burning His Mouth.

A small brazier, full of redhot charcoal, was brought. Seating himself on the floor in front of this, the Arab picked out with a pair of iron pinchers a big lump, which he broke into small fragments, one of which he put into his uttering a series of semisuppressed grouns, he munched the hot charcoal between his teeth. When he had retained it nearly a minute, he spat it out and took up another piece. The operation appeared to cause him great pain. He rolled his eyes wildly, and at times the saliva dripped from the corners of his mouth.

Persians are said to be utterly callous to human suffering, but Mahmoud Bey was so much upset that he got up Order Appointing Time for Proand went out of the room. The prince, too, was visibly affected. To me the performance appeared a mere piece of vulgar trickery. By practice a man might easily retain a small piece of hot charcoal between his teeth in such a manner that it should not scoreh his

When the Arab had crushed some five or six pieces we begged him to stop. He rose and scated himself on the divan, remarking that there was no reason for any anxiety; that the operation was quite a simple one and could he learned in a few weeks by any novice. Despite his placidity, I suspected that his tongue and lips were burned. I was therefore surprised to see him swallow a few minutes afterward a cup of hot coffee and smoke a cigarette, apparently without any inconvenience.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Laughter as a Cure For Worry. "Nearly every woman is a miser of jollity. Men are willing to catch pleasure as it flies, but women must have everything just so before they can abandon themselves to enjoyment, and then they are usually too tired to take it," said a lecturer to an audience of women. "It's a disease, but fortunately not incurable. Women say it is easy to talk this way, but that one can't be laughing when one is hurried and worried. All I can say is that you might be as hurried, but you wouldn't be as worried if you did laugh. I happened once to speak of my husband to a little girl, and she said:

THE LOGICAL COURSE.

It is more than whispered in political circles in the east that a new party is to be organized by the Republican anti-imperialists for active participation in the coming Presidential campaign, but one thing is plain, certainly, and that is that the great body of intelligent Republicans headed by Tom Reed, Bontwell, Edmunds and Carnegie must, if they have any regard for consistency and the logic of their position, oppose with all their vigor and their resources the Republican national ticket next year.

The recent manifestoes of the Anti-Imperialistic League, in which they are the working force, leave no doubt on this point. They have burned their beidges, as far as supporting the administration is concerned. They pronounce the question of imperialism the paramont issue in American politics, whose importance as seyond and above party ties, id a which must be settled rightly a contemplation ination to a ve

If, therefore, the Democrats as a oppose imperialistic expansion, and the of the McKinley policy of militarism, the anti-imperiamentic Republicans, and they include many of the ablest men of the party, must defend their principles in an independent movement, or give their support to the Democracy. Third party movements accomplish nothing, and it would be folly for the anti-imperialists, when such mighty consequences are involved in the issu of the election, to vote in the air. The only logical course for them, therefore, would be for the ~ to ally themselves with the Demogratic party. It is as plain as any future condition can possibly be, that imperialism can be defeated only by the defeat of the Republicans, and the best and surest way to insure Republican defeat is to vote directly for the Democratic nominees.

With the anti imperialist Republican strength united with the Democracy the defeat of the Hanna-McKinley combine would be cyclonic, annihilatory. We are confident that the level heads and practical sense of the men we have mentioned will favor such

REASONS GIVEN,

The Carson Appeal says it supported Stewart because it was the organ of a party whose convention pledged itself for the "grand old man." The Appeal further adds that it had for more than a quarter of a century stood on the platform of the convention representing its party.

MARK HANNA would do well to make every effort to have his rheumatism TWO FRENCH WORDS

"Bordereau" and "dossler" are two French words brought into vogue by the Dryfus case that are not understood by the general reader. As the JOURNAL only professes to be proficient in the American language, its idea of the meaning of the two words was formed by the context whoh illustrated the general application of the words. We learn from an exchange that they are very convenient words because they express so mubb in letter.

Justice Court.

The Justice Court was very quiet yesterday, so quiet in fact that Judge Linn exclamed as he leaned back in his chair, "I think the millenium is approaching, or else the chain gang policy is beginning to have a salutory influence on the 'vag' element."

The civil case of Cool vs. Perkins et. al. was to have come up at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, but was deferred until 3 o'clock this afternoon, when the oriminal case of the State vs. Perkins will also be considered. As yet no settlement has been made in the latter case, which will probably be fought to the bitter and.
